THE EMIGRANT SQUIRE. By P. Haun-ilton Myers, author of "Bell Brandon," &c. Price

"This work, in all the essentia's of plot, incident, moral and fidelity to nature, is one of the very best stories published. Mr. Myers is not only an original thinker, but a humorist of the highest order of merit. There is a vein of humor running through this last production of his quite equal to Thackeray, and would do no discredit to the pen of Douglas Jerrold himself. Such a story amid the trash that is published, is truly refreshing."

Broadway, New-York.

$500 CHALLENGE! An Instrument for Measuring and Drafting Costs.

See CHALLENGE: An instrument for Measuring and Drafting Coats.

The anthor's masterpieces, a correct method for Measuring and Drafting Coats, being an exact transfer of the shape and figure from the body to the cloth, by T. OLIVER & SON, No. 188 Broadway, New-York.

First of T. Oliver & Son contend that their system is the most correct meshod for obtaining the true snape and dimensions of the human figure ever published.

Scond: That after the measure is taken, the instrument will transfer the same to the cloth with great exactness and less time.

Third: That it is better adapted in measuring both sides of the enstomer in cases of disfiguration.

Fourth: By cutting for the following shaped persons without any variation from the measures taken: A large fat man; a very erect person; a high and lew shoulder; a person with one shoulder higher than the other; a round backed person; a lady's habit and a boy's jacket; and as many more garments as the committee may think proper for us to cut.

T. Oliver & Son intend placing the above instrument at many more garments as the commences are for us to cat.

TESTIMONIALS.

In the advertisements of this book, the author has frankly expressed his own opinion of its character, describing it as he wished to make it. His opinion will be accepted, at its proper value, by those who know litin; but, for the benefit of others, and to prevent this work being comfounded with many of a very different kind, he feels justified in publishing a few of the testimomials freely given to its merits. A vicerable clergyman of Philadelphia, in a letter to a friend who had sent him a copy, writes: "I am exceedingly pleased with Dr. Nicholis's book, and trust is will have an extensive circulation. It ought to be possessed by every family throughout the length and breadild of the land, as in universally read."

A barted professor and highly respected elergyman of Virginia, writes of the author and book: "He arise the mostler right by the beart. He is a savage, with his tomalway, utterly scriping abouts and humbogs. I am greatly peared at the success of the book, not so much for his save, (although that greatly) as for the sake of humanity, for I really believe that this book will be a mighty lever to upheave the rather entitization of this age of emulsiness.

An eminent Professor of a New York College, in a leater to the author, save: "Your production, sin, is a noble, successful effort: and, in my opinion, should be in every family. It should be in the banks of every yours man and woman in the United States." "I believe your work destined to produce a vast amount of good, and, with other ands, to bring about a mighty revolution in American society."

A distinguished Medical Professor of Cincinnati writes:

Dr. W. M. STEFFERS, of Forest City, writes—"I think contains more of wiedom and philosophy, and more of the luments of salvation for the human race than all the theo-spiral books that could be onewied into Metropolitan kept it for his wife. He says, that book."

Dr. W. F. Ren, of Newyort, writes to a friend—"I hardly know of an expression with which to give you an idea of the pleasure I take in reading Dr. Nichola' book. If ever books were written by inspiration, this is certainly one of their

Mrs. Heaver A. Honn, of New York, writes to the au-hor—"I have read your Esoteric Anthropology with the cepest interest, and thank you for nobly and fearlessly naking known to sick and enslaved humanity the causes of is wretchedness. No woman can read this book without reling grateful to its author. To mothers, especially, it is realizable."
